MAYOR MELTON LAUNCHES “M&M’s (Minutes & Moments)” MEETINGS

SELMA, Ala - Mayor Darrio Melton will begin to hold monthly listening meetings in his new “Minutes and Moments with the Mayor” outreach program.

Mayor Melton will hold an event once a month to update Selma residents on the latest City Hall projects and hear their concerns about how the city can grow and improve. The March meeting, March 26, will be from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. at Arts Revive Carneal Building Pavilion.

“I want to do what’s best for all of Selma, and the best way to do that is to hear from all of Selma’s citizens,” Melton said.

M&M’s (Minutes & Moments) is a new community conversation that the Office of the Mayor has launched to engage local citizens. During M&M’s with the mayor, citizens will have the opportunity to discuss and share their hopes and expectations for the City of Selma. These hour long conversations will be held in intimate environments and moderated by local personalities.

The meetings will change formats occasionally to give everyone a chance to be heard. This month will be a town-hall style question and answer session. Upcoming meetings may give constituents a chance to meet with the Mayor one-on-one for individual appointments, or they might include guests from various city departments and community organizations.

“This is about giving everyone a seat at the table. I firmly believe that Selma has the most potential for success when everyone is included in the process,” Melton said.

Residents should check the city website or social media accounts for the location and time of each month’s meeting, as they may change to accommodate more people.
